

SEG

Gold Exploration Seminar

February 18th 2014

An event to help to educate both students and industry representatives in the latest research concerning exploration for orogenic gold deposits.

Agenda

15:30 – 16:00: Registration

16:00 – 17:00 Part I:

Are deposits spatially predictable?
Orogenic gold deposits in the Abitibi Subprovince, Canada

17:00 – 18:00 Part II:

3&4D Geomodelling: a tool for mineral resources exploration
Case of the Kupferschiefer, Lubin Region, Poland

Speaker

Dr. Jean-Jacques Royer
Senior Research Scientist and Engineer
CNRS (French National Centre for Scientific Research)

Charges

Industry participants: £35
Student participants: £3

Location

The event, along with refreshments, will be hosted in the Royal School of Mines at Imperial College London. The main entrance to the RSM is from Prince Consort Road, from where the event will be clearly signposted. The nearest tube station is South Kensington, which is around a 10 minute walk. Please see the Imperial College campus map at: <http://tinyurl.com/RSMmap>

For further information and to register visit

www.imperialseg.org.uk

or email

seg.chapter@imperial.ac.uk